Good evening,

I'm sorry that the news is coming this way as I do not feel it is the most professional and not what I would normally do, however, I felt that time was the most important factor here. My husband, out of the blue (we were not even looking), was offered a job in Iowa. I don't know how fate made this work, but right in the same city he got a job offer there was an elementary school opening and I applied for it just in case and got offered the job today which I am accepting. I apologize again that this news is coming in email, but I just got offered the job and wanted to give you as much time as possible because I know this scenario really sucks. I appreciated the time I got to work with you and I will miss all of my coworkers, but I feel that this is the best case for me at this time so that I can be with my family. I will leave my computer and keyboard on my desk over the weekend as I pack up unless you let me know otherwise. Again, I appreciated my time at OAC and getting the opportunity to work with you this past year. I wish you the best!
