Conclusion

The curriculum selection committee comprised social studies teachers from grades and 6-8. Middle school teachers advocated for a specific curriculum resource, while high school teachers sought time to develop and review curriculum mapping. Middle school educators meticulously reviewed four curriculum options, focusing intensively on two. They had the chance to trial these resources in their classrooms, attended demonstrations by the companies, and engaged in discussions with colleagues. Ultimately, the committee unanimously selected the Savvas myWorld Interactive curriculum. Fourth and fifth grade teachers asked to be included in on the adoption as they also departmentalize for science & social studies.
